Herald's Bungalow Plan

An Ideal Home to Cost $2,200

COPYRIGHT, YE PLANRY CO., LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Many Conveniences In This Cozy Home

Today The Herald presents plans of one of the most cozy bungalows that have been submitted. The arrangement is so clever and the cost so reasonable that those who are interested in building will find that these plans, when followed, would make an ideal home. All the lines in this building are true to bungalow style. The horizontal lines are emphasized by the dormer which also relieves the broad expanse of the roof. There is a small court in the rear and French windows open into it from the ingle nook. Notice in the small cut the panels and beams of the dining room and its two-step rise above the living room. This is a five room house, exclusive of bath and nook, and it also includes both front and back porches. This home can be built for $2200, but the figures are based on lumber for the outside walls. If brick is used there will be a little difference in price.
